Am I expected to pay for veterinary care while fostering a PUGS pug?

Pre-approved veterinary care is covered by PUGS. Once the pug is released into your custody, you will contact your PUGS adoption coordinator to discuss the dog's overall health and disposition and to make a plan for vet care. Except in true emergencies, you may NOT take your foster dog to the vet without prior authorization from your PUGS adoption coordinator or two PUGS' board members. Any vet costs incurred for vet care provided to your foster without prior authorization in a non-emergency situation will NOT be reimbursed.
